"Cosmetic and reconstructive dentistry is a blend of many concepts and skills, requiring specific training along with having an artistic, imaginative eye. Patients find their new smiles empowering, giving them added confidence personally, socially, and in business settings," says Dr. Henry.

Dr. Henry also credits his dedicated team for creating a trusting, comfortable relationship with his patients. Orieen, his office manager, says, "The guiding principle of the practice has always been the 'Golden Rule'. We take pride in treating our patients the way we all would like to be treated."

Dr. Henry's passion for smile makeovers led him to his interest in neuromuscular TMJ treatment. Many of his patients not only suffered with worn, broken-down smiles but also experienced debilitating headaches, facial pain and ear congestion. Neuromuscular TMJ treatment can eliminate a variety of these symptoms and reduce dependence on pain relievers. This allows Dr. Henry to create the beautiful pain free smile the patient has always wanted. Dr. Henry's patient Kathy had visited numerous doctors and dentists over 23 years for her facial pain. "I told her that by restoring her mouth with neuromuscular techniques, I thought she would be able to bite an apple again without pain." To show her incredible appreciation, Kathy now sends Dr. Henry a basket of fruit every month. "She tells me that she is so delighted that she thinks of me whenever she eats an apple," he says. 714-385-1672 or newbeauty.com/henry.
